How will you assess prior knowledge and link to new concepts in this lesson plan series? <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• In previous lessons, students have practiced identifying community landmarks by doing a virtual community walkthrough on Google Maps. We practiced the first time within the nearby community, Calgary, and other cities around the world that were important to the students. The second virtual walkthrough followed the route of our real community walk so students have seen the route previously.</li> <li>• Brainstorm charts were co-created as a class to help students practice looking for landmarks. | Next Steps: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Listening and speaking outcomes from English Language Arts will continue to be implemented in multidisciplinary lessons to progress these outcomes</li> <li>The next lessons in the sequence will involve creating a physical community map on the bulletin board outside our classroom. This will be co-created with students using the photos taken from the walk, student artwork (community helpers, self, and community vehicle), and other symbols.</li> <li>To build on FNMI components, we will revisit Walking Together and do another sharing circle using the prompt "The land makes me feel...". Students will create an artwork surrounding this theme.</li> </ul> Worked Well: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students were engaged and excited for the community walk</li> <li>The timing worked well as it aligned with their regular gym period (students knew the routine of physical activity at this time) and was during a period where there was additional EA support in the classroom</li> <li>Students understood the connection between previous lessons and the purpose of this lesson</li> <li>Students made many observations that reached beyond the scope of what was discussed to keep an eye out for</li> <li>Students used the sentence frame we practiced in previous lessons ("I see...") and used full sentences to describe their observations</li> <li>Students made connections to the community walk afterwards (i.e., for the rest of the afternoon and later in the week)</li> <li>A garbage truck, mail truck, and school bus passed us during the walk, which was an excellent teaching opportunity about community helpers</li> <li>Students collected many ideas</li> <li>All student participated in the walk safely</li> </ul> |

- We were able to have another grade 1 class join us to participate in the lesson

Areas of Improvement:

- If possible, doing the walk when there is less snow on the ground would have made it easier for students to navigate (i.e., deep snow prolonged the walk)
- It was difficult to get input from all students (i.e., had trouble hearing ideas from students at the back of the line). It may have been beneficial to pair students up so the line was shorter and switch who was line leader every 5 minutes (i.e., leaders go to the back of the line) so all students had the opportunity to discuss with the teacher.
- This would have been a good opportunity to discuss road safety with students
- In the sharing circle, many of the students gave similar answers, they would have benefited from more pre-teaching of what vocabulary words they could use (i.e., a class brainstorm before the sharing circle). Another sharing circle with the same prompt will be done later in the week so I can consider this when teaching the next lesson.

Notes from my Partner Teacher:

- Another round in the sharing circle may have been beneficial. It would have given me the opportunity to model another answer to the prompt “the land makes me feel...” and give students an opportunity to share a new idea that is different from their peers
